Suggestions for Improvement:	Carson's main assessment tool was observation. She took notes during her first visit to our classroom but her assessment method during the remainder of the time was purely observation. Carson helped out at one of our learning centers and did a great job interacting with the kids. She used our classroom materials as well as brought her own for her lessons.
Overall Rating:	Proficient
Suggestions for Improvement:	Carson added two great ideas to our math lessons. She brought in squishy bags for a lesson on writing the number 5. The kids loved these! She also made super cute number sticks with magnetic tape during a lesson on 1:1 correspondence.
Overall Rating:	Proficient
Suggestions for Improvement:	Overall, Carson did really well. We emailed back and forth quite a bit in regards to the lessons she was teaching. She wasn't sure if she was supposed to create the lesson entirely by herself or take a lesson of mine and teach it. We ended up doing a little of both-- she took my lessons and added an element to each. She did great while she was with us despite the craziness of Catholic Schools Week and 100th Day celebrations. I enjoyed working with her.
